Any student in grade 9-12 who would like to participate on the Hi-Q team this year is strongly encouraged to attend a quick meeting in the library today at 12:15. The schedule for the year was just released yesterday and we actually have a practice match in Marinette on Thursday, December 13th. Please make a point to be at this meeting!

Students, just as we did in October with attendance, and in November with discipline, for the month of December we're going to be placing a real emphasis on academics. Our goal here is to have every student put forth their absolute best effort on every single assignment, activity, and assessment. In doing so, you'll all be establishing a work ethic that will benefit you for the rest of your lives. It isn't often described as such, but succeeding in school means so much more than simply being smart. Rather, more than anything else, succeeding in school means learning how to learn and being able to quickly adapt to new situations and overcome unfamiliar challenges. That is precisely what school teaches you how to do, because that is exactly what it takes to succeed in the outside world. Unsurprisingly, though, school only works if you take it seriously. Going through the motions may be just good enough to get you a passing grade, but it really doesn't help you learn how to learn. As such, we want you all to make a point to work as hard as you can between now and Christmas break. We believe in your ability to do this and we're here to help. Regardless of where you're starting from, I think you'll all be amazed at how much you can grow in a few short weeks. Go Wolves!
